SEASON OF BIG TOURNAMENTS ALMOST HERE.

LOCAL CLUBS PREPARING FOR PLAY-WHAT IS BEING DONE ON NEARBY LINKS-ENGLISH COMMENT ON OUR LUXURIOUS GOLFERS YALE FOR A DUAL LEAGUE

WITH HARVARD. The activity already apparent among golf-players in this city indicates that the season in golf will open this year much earlier than usual. where there is evidence that the winter's lethargy is giving place to a renewal of energy; the greeabout New-York are beginning to assume their normal appearance; club-makers' shops are hum ming with activity; improvements that have been dragging along for months are being hurrled to completion, and clubs and players are bending their efforts toward making a speedy start. Reports from the mountains and the seashore are to the same effect, and, though it will be some little time before things assume their usual aspect there, the work of preparation has already begun. Almost every day brings news of a new club organized or another links laid out, and players who plan to spend the summer away from town will find longer and better courses than ever before.

That this is not a premature beginning is evident the season of open tournaments that it was necessary to push things forward a bit, and even now it is doubtful whether all who desire dates will find Sir Thomas will add dignity to the occasion. Earlier it is doubtful whether all who desire dates with a place on the calendar. April will be a busy challengers have come across by ocean steamer a place on the calendar. April will be a busy and joined their yachts here, or, like Asbury and mouth, for, besides the championship, the Ocean County, Laurence Harbor and Lakewood Golf Club have all announced tournaments, and each is cer-tain of a large entry list. In spite of their failure to secure the metropolitan contest, the Lakewood players are determined to carry out their spring surnament, and from the talk of players in this city it will not be lacking in satisfactory support. Walter J. Travis, who, with the exception of Find-

John Reld, jr., capital of the Yale team, is expected to bring his men down for a match in April, and other games are in contemplation for the same month. The Lakewood season is practically over by the first week in season is practically over by the first week in Season is practically over by the first week in second Dunraven hoat was a good-sized yacht, bigger than the very effort is being made to crowd in as many matches as possible to compensate for the disappointments of the winter.

At the other courses a similar energy prevails. The Nassau County club, of Glen Cove, is bending every effort to have its new clubbouse and links ready for the formal opening on Memorial Day. and though the weather has caused some serious setbacks, President Harvey Murdock is confident that this will be done. The North Jersey County of Paterson, is engaged in adding nine new holes to its course, and plans an open tournament for the autumn; the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club has jurchased twenty additional acres of land with which to extend its women's links; the Apawamis Golf Club, of Ryc, has begun work on a new clubhouse and course to cost $100,000, while the Rockway Hunt, Laurence Harbor, Somerset, Tuxedo, Essex County and Hillside clubs are pushing their improvements with all possible dispatch. And this is only a small part of the preparations and this is only a small part of the preparations the improvements with all possible dispatch. Some officially pronounced her hull to be unsafe, and in his report, made at the request of the Government, he printed these words, speaking of the weakness in the region of the mast:

"But even with these special dispositions the provisions do not appear commensurate with the focal strains, particularly on the weather side, that the structure will undergo by reason of the narrow spread of the stays, introducing an enormous thrust of the centre of pressure. Ardsley Golf Club, on the Hudson, whose membership is composed of the wealthiest Wall Street practitioners and Next-York millionaires, has always been supposed to lick creation for gorgeousness. It has an initiation fee of £39. The clubnome contains a large swimming bath, diningroom and grillroom, a concert ball and other trifles obviously necessary to the confort of hardy golf-ers. It has its own railway station and its private dock at the river front. But Ardsley is beaten by a golf club which they keep at Newport, R. I. the quiet little fishing village where every self-respecting millionaire has a coses little cottage that costs about a quarter of a million sterling. It is, we believe untrue that every member plays round accompanied by a powdered flunky in knee breeches, who carries a sack of new golf balls, and that his business is to drop a new one at each stroke, also that the holes on the Newport course are lined with gold, and the enddes compelied, under severe penalties, to wear silver underslothing, like the Duke in the "Bab Bollads." There is no wasteful extravagance about the Newport committee. They have only been content with the handsomest and most luxuriantly appointed clubhouse in all the world of golf!—which is the deast one could expect of them.

The recent decision of the United States Golf As sociation to increase the cash value of the prizes offered in the professional championship will doubtless strike the same observer as another proof of his point, for the sum voted is almost double that eide $450 is the amount patd the winners in the professional contest, the money being divided among the first six men, with a firse prize of $150. Here it is the intention to include the first eight players, and, though the exact distribution of the It is understood that the first prize will not final decision at a meeting to be held the latter part of this month, when it is believed the scale will be fixed about as follows: First $200, second, $200; third, $100; tourth, $700; iffth, $50, sixth, $40, seventh, $25, and eighth, $15. EXCHANGE OF PLANS

Some peculiar exchanges have of late years been made in the building of cup-defenders. The Val-kyrie II came out as a narrow boat to compete Walter J. Travis, who, with the exception of Findlay Douglas, is perhaps the best known of local golfers, has declared that he will play at Lakewood in preference to Garden City, and Douglas is inclined to the same opinion. These two have yet to play off the final round of the Thanksgiving week tournament at the golf club there, and as this will probably be made the opening feature of the present tournament it will be a further inducement for others to go in. The plan now is to pair Douglas and Travis in the opening round at medal play, and to relax the less stringent rules of that form of the game in order to allow their scores to count in the postponed match.

kyrie II came out as a harrow boat to compet against the great beam power of the Vizilant whose width was about twenty-size feet, but where the latter boat was getting beat in England in ability of the yacht that defeated her, and the competition of the yacht that defeated her, and the competition of the yacht that defeated her, and the competition of the yacht that defeated her, and the competition of the yacht that defeated her, and the competition of the yacht that defeated her, and the competition of the yacht that defeated her, and the competition of the yacht that defeated her, and the competition of the yacht that defeated her, and the competition of the yacht that defeated her, and the competition of the yacht that defeated her, and the competition of the yacht that defeated her, and the competition of the yacht that defeated her, and the competition of the yacht that defeated her, and the competition of the yacht that defeated her, and the competition of the yacht that defeated her, and the competition of the yacht that defeated her, and the competition of the yacht that defeated her, and the competition of the yacht that defeated her, and the latter boat was getting beat in England in the latter boat was getting beat in England in the latter boat was getting beat in England in the latter boat was getting beat in England in the latter boat was water-line beam, as measured by Hobeon, of twenty-two feet. craft was. On no racing course did a big breeze tr her weatherly abilities, and the extent of the latent powers of that graceful Leviathan, especially in comparison with those of the Defender, are still un-known to any one. Only the crew of the Defender and Lieutenant Hobson and a few more know that the Defender's hall was not strong enough to support the strains of the mast in a seaway and pitch traditional English slimness and in this case he is building to sail in light airs. He paid a visit to the Defender when he was here, and he knows that the fastest 20-footer for light weather that ever sailed was just 22 feet wide. That seemed a safe fact for him to work on. But why, if the Defender was just right, dld the Herreshoffs make their new boat two feet wider? Were they afraid of the Valkyrie's power in 1852? It looks a good deal that way. Some of the conditions of the Valkyrie it race are about to be repeated in the races of 1859, after a lapse of six years. THE PECULIARITIES OF THE SHAMROCK

No boat's construction was ever more jealously guarded than that of the Shamrock, and at th men are only permitted to see the pieces they personally handle. But now that the eraft is being framed up, large numbers of men can understand the general ideas in the design. Some interesting facts regarding her dimensions have now leaked out, and it is said that the racer will be 12 feet long over all, with a water-line length of 35 feet and a water-line beam of 22 feet. She approaches more nearly to the true fin-keel type, as this is found in the smaller yachts, than the new defender. Her floors are flatter from how to stern, and the hull proper will sit much shallower on the water, though the total draught with the in will be about the same, between 19 and 25 feet. Her keel is a solid piece of phosphor bronze. This same metal, at a thickness of three-sixteenths of an inch, will plate the lower part of the hull from the keel to the water-line, above which she will be plated with aluminum to the rail. Her ballast will not be more than sixty tons—about two-thirds that which has been lately put on the Bristol boat, and the whole turnout shows that Fife is gambling on having fine, light weather, for which he is producing a craft that will steal along on the faintest of airs making the smallest possible fuss in the water. The model has been described as "all on top and helow," meaning that the hull will skim along the surface while the fin that Joins it to the deep-down ballast will offer the smallest possible opposition to the water. It is though that one-third of the usual fin ballast has been shandoned for the express purpose of allowing the fin to be of extreme inhimess, as measured through from side to side, this scneme lightening up the strains on the whole structure, especially the under-water part of it. From the fact that the weight of the entire boat will be reduced to a minimum she will certainly be a quick starter, able to get away on the click of a hair-trigger. Through building the upper works of the same size when the plating is posuitarly thin the gain will probably be less than this. On the othe men are only permitted to see the pieces they per sonally handle. But now that the eraft is being

The idea is to take a boat with large stateroom accommodation, in order that the families of amateur yachtsmen may share the fun and entertalments that are enjoyed at every port on the trip. Several members have spoken of this as the best proposal ever made in a yacht club, and it is almost sure to be proceeded with if a sufficient number of members' families indicate a wish to go.

Lord William theresford has two nominations in the Lincolnshire Handleap, at one mile, on March 21. They are Berzak and Knight of the Thistle, both American horses, Berzak will carry 108 pounds, and Knight of the Thistle 116 pounds. Sloan's first mount in England this season will be at the Lincoln meeting, and it will probably be on the favored one of Lord William Beresford's pair in the Lincolnshire Handleap. Berzak belongs to Lucien O. Appleby, Lord Beresford having only leased the running qualities of the horses.

THE VICTORIA TEAM DEFEATS ALL-NEW-YORK SEVEN AFTER AN EXTEN-SION OF TIME.

Many club men are New-Yorks, was wor by the Canadians by a score of 5 goals to 4. The game was fast and rough at times, and the men met in collision several times.

Some of the players were led from the ice.

The game was to be of two twenty-minute halves but when the time was up the score stood a tie, ach team with 4 goals to its credit. The captains agreed to play until either team scored. The New-York team was the first to score a goal, but it was after the whistle had blown. The New-York team claimed the point, but after the Victoria men protested the play was resumed, point not counting for the New-Yorkers. 'anadians finally won after forty-eight minutes of Davidson made the goal. The Victoria men did not question the referee's depected, as they had had no training together. All-New-York team consisted of Penwick and Wallace, of the New-York Athletic Ciub; Dobby, Wall and Drysdaie, of the Skating Club of Brooklyn, and Phillips and O'Donne'l, of the Hockey Club of New-York. These are considered the best players in the league. The referee was criticised on the ground that he showed partiality to the home The players on both teams are Canadians, except Phillips. In the play McLea and Wall came together with a crash. Wall lying on the ice until his fellow players led him off.

In the first half the New-Yorkers started off like Phillips shot a goal on a pass from winners. Before the half was over Dobby added another point to New-York's score on a pass from Phillips, making the score at the end of the half goals to 0 in New-York's favor.

In the second half the visitors got in their team work, and McLea succeeded in shooting a goal on work, and McLea succeeded in shooting a goal of a pass from Drinkwater. Phillips, the only American on the team, shot the third goal for the home team, after carrying the puck from the centre of the rink. Then Acer scored for the Canadians, and was followed soon after by Davidson, making the score I goals each. Dobby then scored for the home team, and the crowd yelled. Before the half was over Davidson added another goal, to the visitors' score. This ended the second half with the score a tie.

NEW-YORK ATHLETIC CLUB DEFEATS THE UNI VERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA AT WATER

POLO-SCORES FOR THE DAY.

Governor Roosevelt, accompanied by his sister Mrs. W. S. Cowles, visited the Sportsmen's Show yesterday afternoon. The Governor came on the invitation of the association, but he declined a proffered box, and made his tour of the exhibits In as unostentatious a manner as possible. He watched the water sports, and had a long talk with the indians and some of the guides. The Governor is an enthusiastic big-game hunter, but his hunting experience has been mostly in the West. He took a look at the big game and showed associate membership scheme is one of the latest | Mrs. Cowler through the exhibits of guns and pro-changes in the Amateur Athletic Union rules, and | jectiles, taking a special interest in the relies of used projectiles and the fac-simile reproductions of

H. S. Cornish, of unenviable notoriety in connection with the Adams poisoning case, continues to be a central figure in the water sports at the big tank at the Garden. Considerable ill-feeling has talking of the management of that club, which continues to keep a man at the head of its athletic affairs concerning whom so many unfavorable comments have been uttered in the last few weeks. Some persons now insist on calling the Knickerbocker Athletic Club the "Cornish Club." One of the most exciting water polo games of the tournament was that played in the large tank last night between the New-York Athletic Club and the team from the University of Pennsylvania. The New-York men were too heavy for their more youthful rivals, and they won by the score of 4 to Webb, of the New-York team, looked like a porpolse at bay in front of the New-York goal, and the collegians might just as well have tried to ferce their way through a ton of beef. The New-York and Knickerbocker teams will come together The men in the extra period seemed to be ex-hausted. They fell over each other repeatedly. The intermediate fig. Last night W. G. Douglas scored the first goal New-Yorkes playd a better game than was ex- i to im. 2s., and "Fred" A. Wenck made the second score in 2m. 32s. This ended the first half, with the ball always in the Pennsylvanian territory. In the second half Douglas and Dr. Davis did the scoring Pennsylvania's defensive work and tackling was good, but they did not know the tricks of the game as well as did their rivals. In the second half the sealer ombination obtained the ball, and by a series of alternate bucks and end plays succeeded in soon s tieing their opponents.
